This dynamic, two-day class will introduce both new officers and seasoned investigators to tips and best practices associated with police interviews and interrogations. Being a good interviewer and interrogator requires you to embrace a variety of approaches. The skills learned in this course will help provide you with the tools needed to greatly increase your odds of a successful interview. Special focus will be placed on:

- Defining interviews vs. interrogations
- How we communicate and why
- Truthful behavior vs. deceptive behavior
- Developing themes
- Defense mechanisms
- Using conversation and rapport
- Cognitive Interview Methods
- Case studies
